New Reviews

I have posted Sgt Tony's introduction in full as he has had some issues with the service so I thought it better to publish the entire entry.

Russell Gibbs' Daily Tipping Service – Introduction

Hi Folks

James asked me to review this system recently. I got all of the details and started on the first day and then found that the tipster, Russell Gibbs, was going on holiday that night! I kept checking as to when he would return and started following his selections, but omitted to put the results onto the blog, as I was trying to work out the best way to carry out the review. When I explain how the system works, you may understand my dilemma, but at the end of the day I have to hold my hands up and say that I should have started posting the review results much earlier than this! However, I have been following the system and recording it, so that will not be a problem.

The system provides a standard rate telephone line to call to receive the selections. There is also a separate update line, which, as the name implies, gives later selections. Subscribers should receive a text message letting them know when to call this update line, but I have never received one. I have checked the update line quite regularly, but it is hit and miss as to whether there will be selections there or not. In the early message for the day, Russell does sometimes hint that there might be selections later in the day, but this is also not guaranteed. In addition, the results displayed on the website (<http://www.russellgibbs.co.uk/>) are way out of date (22 September is the last result shown!) so there is no way of checking the selections given.

I have occasionally missed a day by being out of the country on business and found that there is no way to catch up. I am in the process of trying to rectify this with the publishers, so will update you as and when I hear from them.

The service costs £95 per month but the first month is offered at half price (£47.50) by way of an introductory offer from Sportsworld Publishing. For your £95 per month Russell provides a number of lay bets, which he advises that you back to £100 fixed liability. This is another issue, as I use the Betfair SP to record the results, but it may, of course, be possible to get much better prices during the day. He also provides a number of win and each way bets that he advises you to back at £50 per win or £25 each way. He also sometimes combines these win and each way bets into multiples, but leaves you to decide what stakes to use. This makes it almost impossible to record accurately, so I have decided to ignore this aspect of the selection, but understand that this could produce very different results to his – if he published them in an up to date manner! His results do show the advised price and the ISP but not how much money was staked or how his cumulative bank is progressing – quite odd. To further complicate matters, he also has a blog on the site in which he sometimes talks about his selections and how they fared, but sometimes do not, so it is inconsistent in terms of being able to rely on it for results. In addition, the last blog entry was 27 October, so it is not exactly timely either! All in all, quite a complex service to review, but I will soldier on!

Kind regards

Tony

The Pointer Software -Reviewer Sgt Brendan

Apologies with the delay for the pointer software review.

The pointer software will have to go into the neutral section. Now while it did not set the world alight, it still made a profit albeit a small profit.

I actually liked this software the short time I was using it, before I went on the daily sheets. It started on a really bright note with some lovely winners, and was ticking along nicely before the owners decided to change the selection procedure to obtain less selections with a higher strike rate along with a place selection service unfortunately this did not work, and admitted they were wrong and for which they apologised. The place selections actually showed a profit of just over 9 pts over a period of 47 days. The Pointer Software win selections showed a small profit of 5.55 pts to BFSP. Now I was using the pointer software for another 30 days after the review ended and the profits did increase and it did end on a 12/1 winner. This was back at the original settings. Overall one cant help but think that there is little interest from the owners in this product as they seem to have a lot of other products on the go at the moment and you only have to go to the website to see that the last 'results ' are shown from the 17th June.

The cost of the pointer software service works out at £59 every 2 months or £37.50 per month and you also get a 14 day free trial to try out the pointer software. In order to have full use of the software you do have to be a full member or the Racing Post, which works out at an extra £7.50 per month.

Failed and Jailed

Dream Lays - Reviewer Sgt Brendan

Well, this should come as no surprise, that Dream Lays is placed in the failed section, but first let us remind us what the Dream lays service is about.

Dream Lays is, unsurprisingly, a laying service.

The Dream Lays service only seeks to 'play' when the odds of recommended horses fall into certain odds parameters, as follows. There is a low range and a high range and, at the low end, Dream Lays subscribers would oppose horses priced between 5.9 and 7 on the exchanges. The high range is between 12 and 17 in Betfair terms.

Each day, there are around ten to twenty possible selections, sometimes more and this is whittled down to roughly three to five daily after the odds consideration has been applied. The selections are emailed out to you or you can go to the members section to access the selections, there were no problems on that account.

Dream Lays subscriptions are monthly, quarterly or annual, with a sliding scale of price depending on how long you sign up for. The monthly ticket is £59, the quarterly £139, and the annual price is £399.

The easiest way to use the Dream Lays service would be with a bot, where one would simply enter the horses and the ranges and allow nature to take its course, although this was not recommended by the vendors. Failing that, there is a requirement to track the pre-race markets to check the odds. In fact, there is a slightly bigger problem than that.

It is recommended that dream lays subscribers back horses only where their Betfair SP resides within a certain range. Unfortunately, the actual Betfair SP is not known until after the race has started. Consequently, it is quite possible to occasionally bet horses outside of the range when your bot or your judgment, says the horse will be within the Betfair SP scope. This is where I had a big problem with this service, even if it had returned decent profits you were never going to achieve the same results as advertised.

Going back to results while Aug was pretty decent with over 30 pts, September was a totally nightmare to pardon the pun, over 100 pts down at one stage, how could the average punter recover from that?

Oct is a strange one, while I showed a profit of over 15 Pts (up to Sat 23rd) then Dreamlays showed a loss of over 18 pts .Why was this?

To be honest I made some mistakes myself I left 3 winning selections and losing selection which made a difference of minus 3.3 pts but this is where I am confused and you can make of it what you will, there were 7 more selections of which 3 were losing bets at the odds of 6.56, 14.31 and 6.2, these were 100% not in the emails that I received and this only came to light when Dream Lays published their results at the end of the month, strange!

So there you have it, a loss of over 40 pts (my results) and a loss of over 70 pts there own results, nothing else for it but to put Dream Lays in the failed section.

Cheers

Sgt Brendan

Racing Secrets Exposed (Tips) - Reviewer Sgt Rob

Background

This Racing Secrets Exposed service is provided by Kris Jackman who created the Racing Secrets Exposed Book which focuses on selecting horses to lay – for more information on this, please refer to the posts on the blog called ‘Racing Secrets Exposed e-Book’.

The Racing Secrets Exposed tips service is provided by a daily email and contains selections that Kris himself has pinpointed as ideal horses to lay.

The Racing Secrets Exposed tipping service costs £37 a month, with an initial payment of £7 the first month and payment is via Clickbank. This is for the ‘Platinum’ package, there is the option of an upsell to the ‘Ultimate’ package but I want to concentrate on the results so let’s move on.

The Betting Banks

I used 2 betting banks, each based on 100 pts where 1 pt = $10. Selections were layed on Betfair for 1 pt each with an aim of winning 0.95 pts (£9.50) for each successful lay.

I used 2 banks for the following reason: The email containing the lay selections advised a price that was trading on Betfair at that particular time; however the email was normally received between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. UK time.

As this price was likely to fluctuate before the off, I decided to use another bank based on the Betfair Starting Price.

So the two banks were christened Early Bird (based on the email price) and BFSP (Betfair Starting Price).

Some Statistics

In the 84 days of testing Racing Secrets Exposed Tips, 83 horses started a race. 16 horses actually won the race (unsuccessful lay): See table on next page.

Date	Time	Course	Selection	BFSP	Early Bird	Pos
05/08/2010	06:10	Sandown	Drift & Dream	3.75	3.55	1st/8
06/08/2010	04:00	Brighton	Piazza San Pietro	5.10	4.10	1st/6
06/08/2010	07:25	Haydock	Christmas Carnival	4.80	5.10	1st/7
10/08/2010	06:50	Nottingham	Rock Ace	3.45	3.60	1st/9
12/08/2010	07:55	Chepstow	Bute Street	5.6	9	1st/10
30/08/2010	04:45	Ripon	Amenable	7.4	8.8	1st/9
31/08/2010	02:30	Ripon	Dark Ranger	12	11	1st/11
02/09/2010	04:35	Epsom	Baralaka	3.8	2.78	1st/10
08/09/2010	03:30	Uttoxeter	Bens Folly	7	6.6	1st/11
10/09/2010	04:45	Chester	Rigidity	2.8	4.6	1st/8
23/09/2010	05:30	Wolverhampton	Take Away	2.62	4.4	1st/12
24/09/2010	02:20	Worcester	Crystal Rock	6.6	5.3	1st/12
28/09/2010	06:00	Newbury	Regal Park	2.48	2.42	1st/8
30/09/2010	02:55	Ayr	Heartbreak	5.2	5	1st/7
01/10/2010	04:50	Newmarket	Sarrsar	5.1	5	1st/15
14/10/2010	06:50	Kempton	Cinderkamp	3.85	6	1st/12
			Average	5.10	5.45

This means that 67 horses lost the race for a successful lay with an average lay price of 7.17 (BFSP) and 6.06 (Early Bird).

The Results

The BFSP bank finished the trial at -2.85 pts (-£28.50).

The Early Bird bank finished the trial at -8.55 pts (-£85.50)

Of course, this needs to be put into context with the monthly payments for the Racing Secrets Exposed Tips, which were £7 (month 1) and £37 twice (months 2 and 3). This adds up to £81 (or 8.1 pts).

So in reality, you can argue that for BFSP, you would be looking at -10.95 pts (-£109.50) and for Early Bird, -16.65 pts (-£166.65)

Once again, this is based on 1pt = £10.

A final table

Bank	Selections	Successful	Strike Rate (%)	Profit pts	Profit pts (with subs)
BFSP	83	67	80.72	-2.85	-10.95
Early Bird	83	67	80.72	-8.55	-16.65

Considerations

In working how to rate Racing Secrets Exposed Tips, I've had a look over my spreadsheet. Out of the 16 winners (unsuccessful lays), 10 of them came between 30/08/2010 and 01/10/2010. So much so, that the profit and loss for the 24 Racing Secrets Exposed selections in that period amounted to -30.75 pts (BFSP) and -31.65 pts (Early Bird).

From 02/10/2010 to 20/10/2010 (end of trial), the system rallied with just 1 winner (unsuccessful lay) in 16 selections amounting to a profit of +12.35 pts (BFSP) and +10.65 pts (Early Bird).

So this tells me that it has good patches and bad patches...possibly the definition of any laying system – but the bad patches have outweighed the good during this trial.

On 28/07/2010, Kris (system author) sent me an email informing the system was 'just over 40 pts up for the year so far' – no results were supplied to back this up (mind you I didn't ask as it was the start of the trial and I wanted to look forward, not back) and there are no results shown anywhere on the Racing Secrets Exposed website, so I am unable to ascertain whether this is correct – I would also make an assumption that the 40 pts doesn't have deductions for the monthly Racing Secrets Exposed subscriptions (which for the end of July would have amounted to £229 (or 22.9 pts if using 1 pt = £10)).

The Verdict

I can only base this on the 84 days that I have had to do the trial. I don't know myself how Racing Secrets Exposed Tips has performed in the past, and I don't know how it will perform in the future.

Based on the subscriptions, betting at £10 stakes would have left me a total of -£109.50 (BFSP) and -£166.50 (Early Bird).

Ramping those stakes up (and still including subscriptions), betting at £100 stakes would have left me total of -£366 (BFSP) and -£936 (Early Bird).

Taking all this into account, I deem Racing Secrets Exposed Tips to have failed. I will award it 2 stars based on there being no problems with the daily email not turning up. Also, the system was rallying a bit in the last two weeks.

Whilst failing Racing Secrets Exposed for the period I tested it, I advise it should be retested in the future with a view to seeing if the categorisation can be changed based on a new reviewing period.

Rating: ★★☆☆☆

SCAM ALERT

Auto Betting Monster Review Scam

This review was carried out by James Fitzmaurice as he is currently training Kirsten on how to make them. Well first of all the best this piece of software could muster was to pass just 1 out of the 5 point BST MOT and that was for the 8 week guarantee through Clickbank.

So first James checked the whois and done Google checks, the identity of the vendors was hidden so not a good start. Now clicking on the Clickbank pay button James was able to find other products sold by the vendors such outstanding systems as Betting Maximiser and Betting Slasher, only joking folks all these were exposed as scams already by BST, all go through the same up sell methods to extract your hard earned money.

Now it has a video showing shots of various amounts of money in Betfair but as we all know these can be easily made up. Although these ones were quite good it doesn't prove anything as James said if they have gone to the trouble of making a video then why not actually show themselves logging into Betfair and going to the accounts from there. The bank statements from Barclays Bank are suspect as the actual colour of the text for the Account holder is completely different from the other text on the statement.

Although the advertising does not go overboard with showing flash cars, big houses and the like it still makes outrageous profit claims of £21,000 plus and earn over £8000 per month etc. Now despite all this success it has no results to download, where is the proof? Nothing!

So it passed the money back guarantee part because it has an 8 week Cast Iron Guarantee through Clickbank, is it really Cast Iron? Certainly not! Because unless you are on your guard these scammers can give you the run-around, how? by giving you a support ticket, if you are lucky you may get a reply from the scammer's support probably offering you extra worthless stuff to appease you or telling you wait a few weeks things will get better, in other words killing time. Before you know it your guarantee has lapsed and goodbye money; solution is go straight for Refunds from Clickbank, avoid anything to do with vendors, you have been warned. Final thoughts:

It goes without saying that you should in "James" terminology. Avoid Auto Betting Monster like the plague!

News About All The Reviews

This section covers all the current reviews being conducted and just gives a quick insight how each review is performing. All the figures quoted below cover the period November 1st to November 7th.

Betfair ATM - Reviewer Sgt Dave

Another good week a total of 46 selections produced 42 winning bets a Strike Rate of 91.30% and produced a profit of 12.64 points.

Blogger's Corner

Pleased to say we had a contribution for the Blogger's Corner this week. Thank you Steve for your contribution.

Blogger's Corner.

I would just like to say, that BST is the bee's knees, and would like bloggers corner to continue.

The most I would like from the people who give us these systems and so forth is a new backing software, like Boxform, Computer and Others

I know Form pro has come out and I find this is good for laying bets more than backing. So come on all you computer programmers bring us some new backing material.

Cheers

Steve

Betting Advice

Are You a Butterfly ? And if so What Type are You?

May sound like a strange question what has it got to do with betting? We don't bet on them do we, No! But I bet some people would out there! No we are not talking Red Admirals or White Cabbage butterflies here but it can describe 98% of the punters from 3 different angles one is as follows:

The Service/System Butterfly

This is an easy one the punter that flies from one service or system to another because they have not won money or not become instantly wealthy in the first few weeks. They do not even give any one of the product or service a chance "oh that one over there looks better I will fly over there now". It is true a very large percentage of the betting products or services on the market are only fit for the recycle bin, but a few decent ones exist but how would this type of punter butterfly find them they are too busy flying all over the place to even notice. The sad fact is this applies to so many of you out there.

The Back everything Butterfly

Now these are the types who would back two butterflies flying if there was nothing else to bet on. So what does this kind of butterfly punter do basically everything in betting terms, backs on every sport be it football, horse racing, greyhounds etc and if they are in a betting shop in between the sporting events why not have a go on the fruit machines. You think I am joking next time you go to the bookies just observe you will be surprised, but of course they can do all this online as well plus casino's, poker etc. the list goes on and on. Now a serious question what chance do they have of any success, and how many different sports do you bet in? I am not saying you should not have some variety but do not over do it. Even when you do find a couple of sports say football and Horse Racing try to break them down further and specialise if you really want to try get one over on the bookies or on your rival punters on the exchanges. If you take the National Hunt you could specialise in long distance races and if you want to take it a step further even just concentrate on either Chases or Hurdles not both. Of course we have only talked from the angle of say doing your own form study.

If you do not fancy or do not have the time to do your own ratings, form study whatever your method of selection then you can go for the services or systems that cover the sports you are interested in, you never know if you have gained a good knowledge in your field of interest you could even improve them by adding your own ideas.

The All Sorts Butterfly

This is probably similar to the others but this applies to how you bet now this punter places every type of bet win, lay bet, forecast, Yankees etc, they will do ante post, In Play want to do trading as well the latter two being very specialised. How do they expect to master them with everything else they've got on. You could say that In Play and Trading are similar well the answer to that is yes and no, because some punters will have traded out before the race has even started others will trade out during the race. In Play you are confined to when the race is actually being run of course the markets here move quickly especially on the flat and does take a lot of getting used to and can only be obtained through experience just look at the Betfair ATM review. Of course you can back/lay In Play or Trade in other sports like football and once again knowledge in the chosen sport would be an advantage.

Maybe we have sidetracked from the original theme here but you should keep to the same type of bets as we know a single bet is the best for the punter long term and of course multiples are the bookies best friend. In this category you could include staking as well where the punters stakes are completely random has no plan, no bank as such just use what ever money is available at the time. So do you fit this category?

How not to be a Butterfly

Become a POSER what does that mean read below:

P = Persistency. Something that separates the truly successful punter from the 98% of the also rans out there. It takes months to build a successful portfolio there will be losses along the way, systems etc will be discarded but if you persist you will achieve your goal.

O = Orderly. Be orderly in everything you do with your betting keep records, notes etc.

S = Specialise. Try to find areas of betting where you can specialise in as already mentioned above it can be specialising in a certain sport, or even areas within the sport. You can also specialise in the type of betting sticking to In Play, laying, win Betting, it's okay to have a mix of say two but do not go overboard.

E = Evenly. Applies to your stakes keep to the same level on your bets, if you have a points system say for strength of the bet do not deviate, keep to your chosen method. So make sure everything on an even keel as regards your stakes.

R = Regularity. Make sure you bet with regularity. Why - if you miss out on a day it could be the day the service or system hits a purple patch and you miss out. This could apply to bets as well, say your normal bet is a win single because you are down you decide to start betting double, trebles whatever, stick to your regular bet in the long term you have a better chance of success.

League Tables

Unfortunately we only have 3 service/systems left and 2 of those had no entries for this week so no lay league tables this week, hopefully we will have some new reviews coming and get more entries next week.

Next Week

Well we should have a final review next week and hopefully some new reviews to look at. Of course we are always on the lookout for any articles that would make interesting reading for you folks and don't forget you can contribute your own thoughts, views whatever through Blogger's Corner, which will remain part of the newsletter as long you folks keep contributing.
