BackandLay Selection Service

– Introduction

31st May 2011

Return to Contents/Index of this newsletter

Admin Gordon - Introduces BackandLay

Hello everybody,

Today I am introducing a brand new selection service called BackandLay.

BackandLay is brought to us by Paul Adrian, and this review has been timed to coincide with the launch of the service, which is offered at cost of £50 per month subscription. Currently a 14 day free trial of the BackandLay selection service is available.

So, what is it all about? Well, as you can probably gather, BackandLay offers selections to both back and lay in the same races. The idea is that you use the potential profits from your lay bets to hopefully back the winners.

The selections from backandLay can range from just 1 lay selection and 1 back selection in a race, to both multiple back and lays in a single race. All selections are available each morning from the members area of the website.

Full instructions are available in the member's area on how to calculate and place your bets. It may appear a bit complicated at first, but you soon get the hang of it, as always a period of paper trading is highly recommended to ensure understanding.

Staking for BackandLay is straight forward.

Lay liability for a single lay selection is 8%, for 2 lay selections 7% each, and for 3 or more lay selections the liability is 6% each, unless advised otherwise. Paul will give the percentage split of the potential profit to be placed on the back selections each day. BackandLay recommends a starting bank of £500 or £1000, for the purposes of this review we will use a £1000 bank. Instructions are that once the betting bank has doubled the initial deposit should be withdrawn. This happens each time the bank doubles, and at each stage the liability percentage reduces as well, but we will get to that hopefully during the review.

As you know, we do like to include results to level stakes for all our reviews if we possibly can, so I will also report profit/loss based on 1pt level stakes on all selections, back and lay. I am not too sure how representative that may be, given the nature of the BackandLay staking plan, but we shall see how it goes.

BackandLay also has a Lay Of The Day selection, which is not included in the main bank, this feature will be introduced shortly I understand.

Although BackandLay is only just being offered to the public, we here at BST have been proofing selections for several months. During this time Paul has been refining his selection process, and results for BackandLay have been impressive. Currently there are no plans for any major marketing promotions, so membership will only be available via this and possibly a couple of other review sites, naturally we believe that our review here at BST will more comprehensive than any other.

The review will start from Tuesday 31st May, and will run for an initial 56 betting days. Should results look promising at that stage, the review will be extended to 84 betting days.

I will be back tomorrow with the day 1 results for BackandLay.

Regards,

Gordon

Full Time Betting Income

Sergeant Tony - Introduces Full Time Betting Income

Hi Bloggers

Here is another new system for a review which will commence on 1st June.

Full Time Betting Income – Introduction

My name is Tony and my main betting interest is in laying horses. I do back horses and bet on other sports (backing and laying), but my special interest is in laying. I run my own sales and marketing consulting business and am also a scuba diving instructor. I manage to combine my passion with my work, by providing sales and marketing services to the scuba diving industry (amongst many other industry sectors). This means that I get to spend a lot of time abroad in the sun, doing what I love – not a bad 'job' really!

I have previously reviewed three systems from the author of this new system (Chris Castell) and am still reviewing two other systems from him. He only seems to deal in laying systems, so that suits my preferences.

The author claims that the Full Time Betting Income system is a comprehensive complete betting arsenal that has more than 7 years history of outstanding profits, and comes with all the tools you need to be successful in betting. He states that his aim was to produce a product that not only provides a system, but also one that provides tools, a money/profit strategy and most of all, a training course to educate the customers on how to approach betting long term and how to bet with long term success. The aim of the system is to show you how to turn a tiny £200 bank in to an impressive 5 Figure annual income – all his words, not mine!

As with most of his systems, there are two ways to purchase the product. The first way is to purchase the system outright for US$157 (roughly £98 depending on the PayPal exchange rate on the day) and you can then work out your own selections. The second option is to pay an additional US$99 (roughly £62 depending on the PayPal exchange rate on the day) and you will be sent the selections by email every day for 6 months. After 6 months is up the payment will automatically renew at the same rate for the next 6 months (unless you cancel it, of course!).

So what do you get for your money? Well, quite a lot, at face value.

Video – “How to Use the Bet Scheduler Bot”

The author has also said that he intends to create a members page, to help clients in the weeks, months and years ahead. It will be a page (or pages) of resource, video and further training.

The System:

The manual is a 39 page pdf file. As with a lot of these manuals, most of the pages are used to explain the rationale behind the system and rules on staking etc. and how to bet in the long term. All useful stuff, no doubt, but the real system rules are explained in one clear and concise page. The manual also explains how to use all the other material that is provided, such as the videos, for example. The rules are very easy to understand.

Staking Plan:

A tailored non-aggressive electronic staking calculator is provided as part of the package, in the form of an Excel spreadsheet. There is also a video that explains and shows you how to use the staking calculator. The video shows you how to enter the data and retrieve the stake amounts for each bet you need to place.

The system starts with a £200 bank, so it sets aside an initial 3.5% stake of £7. Normally speaking, the author agrees that the 3.5% stake might be deemed as too high. However we are dealing with odds-on horses, so the potential losses are quite small in relative terms. It also means that the system can withstand quite a long losing streak before the bank is drastically affected. The strategy behind the Full Time Betting Income is to build an impressive seed bank over a four-year period from a tiny bank of £200. The 3.5% stake is small enough to remain safe, but is large enough to ensure the growth of the bank within this four-year period. The 3.5% stake is based on the highest point of the bank. I should add the first thing you see when you go to the home page is the headline stating:

£41,977 per annum from a £200 Bank – This is not just another system, It's a process

This is quite a bold claim and is backed up by this statement:

“These figures are not hype in any way, they are results and profits that the package has produced, building up a return which has averaged £41,977 profit per annum since the end of 2007. During the first few years, we build our bank, and set ourselves up for an investment return that is greater than any other form of investment that I am aware of. The financial return has been so stable for more than seven years, that a £5-Five annual profits is now potentially within your grasp.”

Only time will tell!

Training Course:

A comprehensive video training course is provided that teaches you how to use the system, how to position yourself for success and how to ensure that your emotions and psychological make-up won't prevent you from being a long term winner (a must for 98% of bettors).

The author states clearly that it is extremely important that you work through the training, because there are certain things that need to be understood, and factors set in place that will almost certainly make the difference between success and failure. The training is not a bonus with this package. It actually formulates a very important part of the Full Time Betting Income package. That is not to say that you can't place a bet before you do the training, but it suggests that you should make the training a priority, because the likelihood of success without going through the training course and adopting the recommended direction is very low

Betting Bot

The free bonus Betting Bot has been provided by The Betting School. This Bot is usually sold for £23, but you can download it for free from the link on the download page. The bot is called Bet Scheduler and will enable you to place your bets before you go out for the day. This means that you don't have to be at your computer during the time of the racing. You can obviously use any other bot that you wish, so please see the various forums for people's ideas as to which are the best ones out there, paid for or free.

Here are some statistics (there are lots available!) for the system. I assume from the wording that the system has been 'back fitted' to show these results and that they are not the results of actually using the system.

Making the selections

The selection process should take about 5 – 10 minutes each day, depending on the month. You should watch the videos when you have read the system 'rules' and everything should make sense. The author recommends that you stick to the selection process as described in the videos, and if you do want to do things your own way, then don't stray too far from the selection methodology

Here are a few simple rules that do not give the game away:

The system is only interested in UK racing, thereby excluding Irish and all other racing abroad.

ALL going is acceptable, with the EXCEPTION where the going is Firm / Hard

The system EXCLUDES the following types of race:

Selling Stakes, Selling Hurdles, Selling Handicaps, Handicap Chases (Novice Handicap Chases are OK), Hunter Chases and Class 7 races

Finally, the lay price range must be between 1.5 and 2.0

[\[Click here to see Full Time Betting Income.....\]](#)

Let's hope that it all works out OK.

Kind regards

Sgt Tony

The Low Lay – Introduction

The Low Lay Long Term Betting Profits With Low Priced Horse Racing Lay Tips

Sergeant Rich – Introduces The Low Lay

Hi Bloggers,

The Low Lay aims to make long-term profits. Subscribers get one quality low priced horse racing lay tip every day by e-mail, usually before 11am.

They advise to get your bets matched after getting the email, rather than waiting for Betfair SP. Whenever possible, during the review, I will report the advised price and the price I can get on Betfair at the earliest chance to look. On those days when I am not around when the email is received, I will report the Betfair SP. The service has a maximum lay price of 3.0 so individual losses are never going to be high, which is very reassuring as lays at long odds take a lot of catching up.

If the available price is above the maximum price advised in the e-mail, the recommendation is to place a lay at that max price and let it go in-play to see if it is matched. Presumably the results quoted on the website, do not include this tactic as they are all quoted at the early price quoted in the e-mail. On my results, I will denote when the lay bet is matched in-play.

The past results on The Low Lay website are reassuringly realistic. Since April 14th 2010 – a year ago – the profit has been £4,570 (Average of £351 per month) to £100 lays (£100 Backers stakes). So to 1 point lays the total profit has been 45.7 points or an average of 3.51 points per month. That might not sound like much, but I make that an average of 0.585% profit per day on the recommended bank of 20 points. So there is plenty of potential to compound up the stakes (see my article on 1%ers in newsletter#39.)

Of the 13 months of results, five months made a loss (max loss -£370 min loss -£25). Of the nine profitable months the max profit was £1,770 and the min profit was £60. So don't expect non-stop profits, there will be ups and downs like all betting strategies.

A word of caution as regards the review period: mostly during the past results a two month or three month period would have produced an overall profit. But Nov and Dec 2010 produced a total loss of -£215 and extending it to include Jan 2011 produced a total loss of -£240. So if the product had been reviewed during that period it would have been failed, yet overall it has made a profit. And in the following February all the losses were recovered! A long-term view is going to be needed.

The subscription cost for The Low Lay is £29.99 per month and I will take that into account when reviewing the overall profitability of the service. The service recommends a 20 point starting bank, which covers 6 or 7 consecutive losing lays. At £100 stakes that would be a bank of £2,000 which is probably too a high level for starting out on a service. £10 level stakes would on average cover the monthly subscription. £50 stakes would, on past performance, produce an average profit of £175 per month which covers the subscription with a nice little profit of £145 per month.

So for this review of The Low Lay I will place £50(1 point) lays with a starting bank of £1,000(20 points) (still quite high).

Cheers, Sgt Rich

LAYING SUMMER PROFITS

Sergeant Tony-Introduces Laying Summer Profits

Hi Bloggers,

Following on from his earlier systems, Laying Autumn Profits, Laying Winter Profits and Laying Spring Profits, it seems only right and proper that we should complete the calendar by reviewing Laying Summer Profits from the author, Chris Castell.

Laying Summer Profits is a specialist lay betting system designed and tested on the UK Flat horse races during the three summer months of June, July and August. Laying Summer Profits is aimed specifically at the 2 year old flat horse racing market.

Punters are offered the choice to simply buy the Laying Summer Profits system outright for US$150 (which works out at £93.32 on PayPal's current exchange rate) and they can then work out their own selections. The other option is to pay to get the selections sent to you each day by email for a fee of US$150 per month. The website actually says it costs £97 per month, but the PayPal exchange rate makes it slightly cheaper at £93.32 per month. You have the option to cancel at any time so that you just pay for each month as you wish.

For the initial investment in the Laying Summer Profits system, you receive the system manual in pdf format, which is clearly written and easy to follow, without all the usual 'padding' that many authors use.

There is also an instructional video on how to use the system, a tailored staking plan calculator with instructions on how to use the staking plan, complete with the fully detailed results for the last 5 years. Chris claims that the success of his seasonal systems lies in the fact that he is accounting for changing conditions throughout the year by only looking at the short term monthly or quarterly conditions. He also claims that the staking plan that he offers was able to increase the profitability of the system considerably, although we shall be using the level staking system of £100 per point for our review period. This is the one that Chris uses to record the results and he allows for the Betfair commission at 5%. On that basis, a winning £100 stake produces a profit of £95. This is the same basis that we used to review the other Laying Autumn/Winter/Spring Profits system and we will only use the published Betfair SP prices, rather than the odds that Chris is able to get using his own automated betting software.

Here are some of the results that the author claims:

Longest Losing Bet Streak – 5

Longest Winning Bet Streak – 20

Average Laying Odds – 3.42

Average Selections Per Month – 37

Average Successful Strike Rate – 76.79%

The system only looks at 2 year old races, as the author believes that 2 year old horses offer the lay bettor a great opportunity in making consistent profits. This is often because these horses have little known history and statistics to base an evaluation on. Horses don't begin racing until they are at least 2 years old, so represent a danger to backers generally. However, often, this danger is not represented by the available odds, which so often are way too low, and give the lay bettor a value betting opportunity.

The system attempts to look for value. Value (for the lay bettor) is where the odds of a selected horse have been reduced so that they are lower than they should be. To find value, the system looks for what the mass average punters are looking for to back a horse, but we are going to lay it. The system also factors in some criteria that the average punters don't look at, which works against the horse's chances of winning. The system looks for a horse that is likely to be a value bet coupled with more obscure criteria that goes against the horse's chance of winning.

The author claims that it takes about 5 to 10 minutes to find your selections for the day and recommends that you look at the video once you have read the system rules in the manual. That will show you the process to take that makes the selection process so quick.

The ease of use of the system means that you can find your selections and place your bets first thing in the morning, before you go to work for example. The author recommends that you place your bets one minute before the off, to ensure that you keep to the recommended odds range. Obviously, if you do want to place your bets in the morning and you can't be at a computer at the time of the off, you will need to use an automated betting system, referred to as a 'BOT'. There are a few bots around at a reasonable cost and a couple of free ones too. See the forums for the more popular offerings.

I am obviously not going to publish the rules here, but the first few define the markets and do not give the game away:

We are only interested in UK Flat racing during the summer months of June, July and August, so we exclude any Irish racing, hurdles, chases or NH Flat races.

We are only interested in 2 YEAR OLD RACES. We will consider all going EXCEPT Heavy, Firm or Hard. The lay odds must be between 2.10 and 5.00 on Betfair. I hope that it all works out and look forward to the review.

Kind regards, Sgt Tony

League Table of Current Reviews

Return to Contents/Index of this newsletter

The systems under review have different starting banks, different stakes and some systems have variable stakes. A reasonable way of comparing the performance of systems is to work out the profit (or loss) as a percentage of the starting bank.

I've colour coded the reviews that are the currently most successful, with the colour of their profitability graph to make them easier to spot.

Sprint Lay Expert has moved back up the table this week. Betfair Success Formula and Betting Profits are going to be more or less inactive until the new football season. Of course, Turf Wars appears to be winning the battle for the top, hands down!

Obviously this table doesn't replace reading the reviews, because profit as %age of bank is not the only factor in judging a system. Nevertheless, I think it gives a valid comparison and an at-a-glance way of bringing the mass of data together.

Profitability Graph

Return to Contents/Index of this newsletter ↩

Here is a graph of the profit being made by the front-runners as a percentage of their starting bank. This gives a week by week comparative view of their progress.

It gives a representation of the volatility or dependability of each system. Ideally we would want a graph that increased each week by roughly the same amount. If a system or tipping service could produce that, then we would really have a winning review!

Turf Wars has kept up its fantastic success. It's going to need its own graph soon! All the others are going to be trickling along the bottom! We'll have to see if Betfair Success and Betting Profits can catch up when the football re-starts. Sprint Lay Expert has roller-coastered back into contention.
