INTRODUCTION

Hi Folks,

We have two New Reviews and Two Final Reviews this week. Champion Racing Lays has passed the Final Review.

In the Current Reviews section of this newsletter, the LayTheOdds reviews are in violet to help differentiate them from the BettingSystemTruths reviews that are in blue

The results, league table and profitability graph include Monday evening reports, making the newsletter as up to date as possible when you receive the newsletter on the Wednesday morning.

Bonus Bagging, from LayTheOdds, has shown great profit in the five weeks of the review. Sprint Lay Experts is doing well again and the rest, it is fair to say, are a pretty mixed bag.

We'd like to hear from you, please contact me by e-mail via the Bloggers Corner at rich@bettingssystemtruths.com

The Killer Instinct - Introduction

19th July 2011

Sergeant Karl- Introduces The Killer Instinct

Hello Bloggers,

The Killer Instinct is a laying service that claims to make a steady 15 points per month, on average there will be 5-10 selections per day, and a lay ceiling of 8.0, the emails are received around lunchtime, you can also use a bot easily with this service.

The cost is very reasonable at approx £10 per month for the first month, then approx. £20 per month after that, I say approx, as it is priced in dollars on the paypal site so you are at the mercy of the exchange rate.

That is it really as the author of The Killer Instinct states "it is a very simple service" I have no insight into how he reaches his selections so this will be a short intro.

Let's look at his previous results

Since January the claim is 92 pts profit with an 80% SR, the only losing month was May @ -12pts. All these are unverified; I hope there are not too many selections around the 8.0 ceiling. As we know from bitter experience member's results can vary wildly on these laying services that set a ceiling.

As always with laying services it is critically important to make steady headway, I have seen laying services lose a whole years profit in one bad month, let's hope The Killer Instinct has the Killer Instinct!

Regards

Sergeant Karl

Racing Profits – Introduction

25th July 2011

Inspector Magnifique - Introduces Racing Profits

Hi Bloggers,

Magnifique here with a new horse betting system called Racing Profits. The title may resemble something to you and there's a good reason for this.

The Racing Profits system comes from Mark Boyle, the author of Racing Winners, a popular horse backing system, which you may be acquainted with.

Racing Profits is a 26-page PDF, priced at £29 (payment to be made via PayPal). Mark, the author of the system, claims that Racing Profits is not another hyped up system, which promises to give you the Holy Grail of betting. Yet it is a system that delivers consistent profits, averaging 10.8 points a month to level stakes.

The Racing Profits system is based on sound principles, which is always a plus and is rather selective. It deals with certain types of handicap races (UK racing only) and concentrates on finding value on Betfair place markets i.e. well-priced horses likely to place. The author states it's not going to bring you loads of betting action and it most certainly won't, though you'll be having a couple of selections almost every day. The Racing Profits system may seem a bit difficult at first but it's nothing complicated really when you get used to the selection process. Although, it does require you to be attentive and patient.

Racing Profits has three strict rules that make the selection process, including a price criterion, all described in two pages. The rest of the PDF is filled with examples of utilizing the system, it also has several tables (odds chart, profit compounding, a table to log your selections) and an FAQ section, which is a must read, as it covers some points you won't find anywhere else in the manual.

The results are proofed to racing-index.com, and you can check all the selections as they come from the author – another positive sign. Past results at Racing Index show an average 41.7% strike rate and this means we need to be prepared for some losing runs, not too long though.

That said, I'm looking forward to starting the review and it is going to last for 56 betting days with a chance of being extended to 84 days if the system is successful, or appears to be a slow burner.

No guidelines regarding the size of the bank needed for Racing Profits and no staking plans recommended. I'll be using a very safe 100 points bank of £500 staking 1 point (£5) each bet.

Cheers,

Inspector Magnifique

My Lucky 15 – Final Review

21st July 2011

Sergeant Rob-Reviews My Lucky 15

Dear all,

After 56 betting days, I have decided to bring an end to the testing of My Lucky 15 and as a result, here is the final review.

What is My Lucky 15?

My Lucky 15 is a betting service provided by Betfan. The service is selections emailed to your inbox (or available on the Betfan website). These selections are used in Lucky 15 bets. A Lucky 15 is a bet type containing 15 individual bets – 4 singles, 6 doubles, 4 trebles and 1 fourfold (accumulator). If all 4 selections are correct, then a 10% bonus is paid out on your profit by most bookmakers. If only 1 selection is correct, then a consolation bonus on that 1 winning selection of double odds is given.

The selections are made by a man only known as 'Martin' and tell you what you need to bet on and which bookmaker is recommended. There is no analysis given for the bets, you just receive the basic information you need to put the bet on.

The service is billed at £19.99 a month, or you can pay £39.98 for 90 days, which is effectively like getting 1 month free.

On the My Lucky 15 website, it states that February 2011 produced a profit of +103.45 pts and March 2011, +113.94 pts. At the time of starting the review (12th May), there was no profit/loss figure for April.

You are recommended to have a 200 pt betting bank, but no advice is given on staking. For the purpose of keeping calculations simple, I recorded results with 1 pt equalling £1.

Why is the review stopping now?

On the BST website, we initially review services for 56 betting days. At that point, we see how the service is doing, and if it justifies it, we carry on to 84 days where we give our final thoughts.

With regards to the My Lucky 15 service, after 56 betting days, it was running at a loss of -116.17 pts and was only in profit for 3 of the betting days. On that basis, I thought it was time to halt the review.

Statistics for the review period

The review period went up to Day 61. There were 5 days where either no bet was advised, or no selections email received – this gives a net period of the 56 betting days. The review period covered from 12th May 2011 to 11th July 2011 inclusive.

There were a total of 71 Lucky 15 bets (as sometimes more than one Lucky 15 bet was advised per day).

Out of those 71 bets, 19 returned profit at an average of 17.52 pts whilst 51 returned a loss at an average of -8.63 pts.

6 times we got all 4 selections right, which, with bonuses, profit returned varied from 14.93 pts up to 60.80 pts at an average of 36.99 pts. Due to 1 match being postponed, there was also a winning patent returning 8.17 pts.

Twice all 4 selections lost which accounted for -15 pts each.

Final profit/loss

At the end of the 56 betting days, the initial 200 pt starting bank was standing at 83.83 pts – a loss of 116.17 pts.

Assuming you add on the best value subscription package of the £39.98 option, at £1 stakes, you would be £156.15 down, at £5 stakes, £620.83 down, at £10 stakes, £1201.68, and if (as mentioned on the My Lucky 15 website), you found a bookmaker that would let you bet £100 stakes, £11656.98 down.

My Final Thoughts

Despite the advertised 100+ pts profit for February and March on the My Lucky 15 website, I haven't achieved anything like that during this review period. I wonder if it is to do with the football on offer – February and March would have been when the English season was still in full swing, but this review has seen bets on games from countries such as Iceland, Japan, Singapore, Lithuania, Kazakhstan and so on.

Whilst there is no reason to bet on games from these countries, I just wonder if the English season is more suited to Martin's selection process than other leagues at other times.

As such, I really would love to review this service for 56 days between, say, September and March just for comparison purposes.

However, my verdict has to be based on the results I have seen during this review period. Previous/Future performance may be different, but this review period is what I am focusing on.

The Final Verdict

Weighing up that we finished -116.17 pts in the red, with a subscription fee of £39.98 on top, and that the starting bank only managed to be above its initial 200 pts for only 3 days of this review, I hereby deem My Lucky 15 to have failed.

Cheers,
Sgt Rob.

Champion Racing Lays

- Final Review

4th July 2011

Review Manager David-Reviews Champion Racing Lays

Rating: ★★★★★

Passed And Approved

Hi Bloggers

Seems a long time now since Champion Racing Lays started way back in February on the 16th and finally finished on June 16th so we managed to end the 84 day period within 4 months.

So, we had 37 non betting days either through no selections or the selections being outside the maximum odds range.

The original version of Champion Racing Lays was reviewed by Sergeant Tommy on Betting System Truths last year and lost just over 31 points and was duly Jailed and Failed.

One of the changes made in Version 2 was to half the maximum lay odds from 20.00 to 10.00, anyway this change plus any others that were made seemed to have a positive impact as results for this particular review were a vast improvement over the original finishing 20.23 points in profit. So let's have a look at the stats:

Breakdown of Review Period Results
Number of Selections 112 / Winning Lays 93 = Strike Rate 83.05%
Longest Losing Run = 2 (once), 1 (17 times)
Longest Winning Run = 15 (once), 11 (once)
Average Price of Selection = 5.61
Average Price of Losers = 4.59
Overall Profit and Loss = plus 20.23 points
Return on Liability = 3.95%
Return on Investment = 18.06%
Return on Starting Bank = 40.46%

So from an average of 28 selections a month you are making just over 5 points a month using the level stakes option, so how did it work out week by week? I have put a profit graph below:

As we can see the bank was never in danger even though it was only 50 points and just 2 weeks showed any notable decrease that was 8 and 10 we had 5 upward trends on weeks 1,3,7,9 and 11 the other weeks remained fairly static. So are the above figures normal for the service?

Let's look at the data for when the Champion Racing Lays 2.0 started on September 1st 2010 to February 15th 2011 the day before we started the review here is the Breakdown:

Breakdown from September 1st 2010 to February 15th 2011
Number of Selections 158 / Winning Lays 130 = Strike Rate 82.27%
Longest Losing Run = 2 (7 times), 1 (14 times)
Longest Winning Run = 19 (twice), 17 (once)
Average Price of Selection = 5.53
Average Price of Losers = 4.51
Overall Profit and Loss = plus 28.05 points
Return on Liability = 3.92%
Return on Investment = 17.75%
Return on Starting Bank = 56.10%

Not much difference the between the two sets of data only the percentage return on Starting Bank which you would expect as the period before the review was 6 weeks longer so let's put it in perspective and add all the data together here is what we have:

Full Results from September 1st 2010 to June 16th 2011
Number of Selections	270 / Winning Lays 223 = Strike Rate 82.64%
Longest Losing Run	= 2 (8 times), 1 (31 times)
Longest Winning Run	= 19 (twice), 17 (once), 15 (once)
Average Price of Selection	= 5.55
Average Price of Losers	= 4.54
Overall Profit and Loss	= plus 48.28 points
Return on Liability	= 3.91%
Return on Investment	= 17.88%
Return on Starting Bank	= 96.56%

So a 48 .28 points profit in 9.5 months so that's still 5.10 points average profit per month, but as the graph below will show it does not exactly work out that way:

As one can see starting of with a 50 points Bank in the first month Champion Racing Lays made 22.50 points profit which is a fair chunk of the total profit of 48.28 this means in the remaining 8.5 months it made 25.78 but if we look at the number of selections per month we can see the reason for the 2 months that were almost static and the one that lost:

Month	Sept	Oct	Nov	Dec	Jan	Feb	March	April	May	June
No of Selections	61	41	17	12	17	18	14	29	43	18

We are all aware of the bad weather that affected racing during the winter months so December's loss was not surprising and it had the least selections, January was only slightly down and February made a small profit. My only concern is when the Months of October and May hit the 40 + selections the profits was no here near that of September's not even half of it. I know that only one of the months concerns the actual review but if you have the full data then it is good to compare the stats see how close they are to each other if results before the review are similar to that of the actual review then you have a pretty good chance the service or system is a consistent performer.

Staking Plan

On the website other than the 1 point level stakes to a 50 point starting Bank the vendors suggest using a 50 point bank and then compounding every month. Quite simply at the end of each month you divide your running bank or cumulative bank if you prefer by 50, so for example as we can see from the previous graph starting off with a 50 point bank in September using the 1 point per bet stake at the end of the month we had a running bank of 72.70 points divide that by 50 and you have a stake of 1.45 points per bet for the month of October and you carry on like that for every month until you get to stage hopefully that you can take out some of the profits. Now as it takes time for the cumulative staking to mount up I did not bother to work it out for the review period but was able to produce some data and a graph from when the service first started in September last year up to June 16th here they are:

Champion Racing Lays Compound Staking
Overall Profit and Loss =	plus 66.50 points
Return on Liability =	3.34%
Return on Investment =	15.19%
Return on Starting Bank =	133.00%

Champion Racing Lays Compounding

Well, a better profit is shown 66.50 points and June is currently staking 2.24 points per bet, we can see that September still provided just over a third of the profit but not as bad as the Level Stakes. The flat spots of December to February are still present but at least the line was steeper after these months. It would be interesting to see how far this will go being that there is a couple of compounding products on the market at the moment. For those of you who are interested in compounding here is how the stakes increased each month:

Month	Sept	Oct	Nov	Dec	Jan	Feb	March	April	May	June
Stake Per Bet	1.00	1.45	1.67	1.82	1.71	1.67	1.71	1.88	2.07	2.24

Cost and Service

Since our review started, Ozmedia have altered the subscription charges for the Champion Racing Lays service.

These are now as follows:

- 3 months for – 93 pounds (works out to 31 per month)
- 6 months for – 155 pounds (equivalent to 1 month free)
- 12 months for – 248 pounds (equivalent to 4 months free!)

The 14 day free trial offer has ended, but there is now a 30 day money back guarantee.

For this you get a Completely fully automatic Betting Bot, Detailed User Guide and Quick start plus Technical Support from Betting Bots Worldwide.

I take it that the Bot will automatically receive or find the selections and place the lays for you if they qualify; unfortunately I did not have use of the bot during the review but received the selections by e-mail. The e-mail service was very good and only twice did I not receive an e-mail and this was due to bad weather disrupting the vendors power and internet connection, they were very quick to apologize once they were up and running. The results on the website and the odds were the same as mine and it was good to see a vendor deducting 5% Betfair commission, the only thing we differed on was a horse that was 10.01BSP I excluded this because it was the over the 10.00 maximum odds limit and they included it, other than that no issues.

Conclusion

There is a lot to like about Champion Racing Lays 2.00 the vendors have done well in transforming the old losing version to one that made a profit. Overall having losing runs no longer than two not just during the review but in the months before this is quite impressive some good winning runs too, e-mail service was very good and I have had contact with the vendors and found them helpful and polite. The results on the website are fairly up to date and no problems with different odds etc, although they do need to change the home part of their website as they have had far more than 83 selections this year now. Now although the 20 points profit obtained during the review is not too bad this will not be enough for some people although you have to consider that the amounts on the losing parts was quite small so no heavy monthly losses. If the Bot can handle getting selections and placing the bets it could be very useful for those who work during the day.

Concerns?

Well looking at all the months the service has been running is slightly worrying that is it has had only one really good winning month, it has had winning months of course but around 2 to 7 points given that you are laying at up to 10.00 it is important to have a safety net of points if you are only winning small amounts it's easy for one or two higher priced winners to damage the bank it did not happen during the review but it will sometime.

Taking all the above into consideration and the fact that the service did make a profit during the review I am awarding it 3.5 stars.

Regards

RM Dave

League Table of Current Reviews

Return to Contents/Index of this newsletter

The systems under review have different starting banks, different stakes and some systems have variable stakes. A reasonable way of comparing the performance of systems is to work out the profit (or loss) as a percentage of the starting bank. Obviously this table doesn't replace reading the reviews, because profit as %age of bank is not the only factor in judging a system. Nevertheless, I think it is a valid at-a-glance way of bringing the mass of data together.

I've colour coded the reviews that are the currently most successful, with the colour of their profitability graph to make them easier to spot. Some of the older or suspended reviews have been taken off the graph.

Bonus Bagging has had five profitable weeks. Will it be #1 next week?

Profitability Graph

Here is a graph of the profit being made by the front-runners as a percentage of their starting bank. This gives a week by week comparative view of their progress.

It gives a representation of the volatility or dependability of each system. Ideally we would want a graph that increased each week by roughly the same amount. If a system or tipping service could produce that, then we would really have a winning review!

Previous star performer, Turf Wars, has slumped but is still profitable. Sprint Lay Expert has rallied well. Bonus Bagging is the most consistently profitable. RebelBetting is back in action and making slow, but steady progress. The LowLays has dropped off the graph!
