INTRODUCTION

Hi Folks,

Welcome to the latest edition of the BST Newsletter which as you will see has reverted back to being weekly; this should mean that it is easier to follow your favourite reviews.

This edition is a bumper one we have 2 New Reviews starting Football Lays and The Form Man plus 2 Final Reviews Lay Bet Dominator and ProBall Club one passed and one failed, our featured review is Football Bets and also an article from me.

We'd like to hear from you, please contact me by e-mail via the Bloggers Corner at news@bettingsystemtruths.com

Speak To Me

Return to Contents/Index of this newsletter

I sent a broadcast email out on Sunday gone to a section of readers on the Betting System Truths newsletter that have been quiet for a number of weeks. The email was entitled "Speak To Me". My main aim was to try to find out why this sub section of people on the BST list of seventeen thousand people were not opening the emails and checking out what we had to say. You would not have seen that email if you are an active reader but, this email and the results would interest you greatly so I decided to offer it to everyone on the newsletter as a year-end article! Articles are something I do not have the time to do usually and so you are in for a real treat. (I hope)

As far as I was concerned the email I sent out on Sunday the 25th November was going to eleven thousand list members that had shown no interest in the newsletter of late... How wrong was I...?

We have had 1,437 personal replies. I am not kidding. I sent the email out to 11,000 BST readers who lets say, are not as active on the blog as the other 6,000 or so readers. Six thousand one hundred and thirty two readers opened that email and for me that was amazing in its self, before I even opened my email to see the responses.

It has taken myself and Kevin over 48 hours to read every single email but as I am sure you will appreciate it would be impossible to reply to everyone before the end of this year let alone in a few days, hence why I thought it a good idea to produce and share this article based on the feedback.

The good news from the broadcast on Sunday is that we have around 12,500 newsletter subscribers that have opened BST broadcasts in the past 10 days. I am sure right now, that nobody else in this arena is getting open rates like this. It is testament of all our efforts here at "Review Towers". I feel gratified that all those that usually are silent appreciate all our work here. Reaching out to so many people also means that as an authority figure in this market we can affect many peoples purchasing decisions. Which pleases me a lot because I only want you to buy products that have shown good signs of working long-term and in addition, only where the vendor has distinct credibility.

Now I would like to go through with you our overall feedback...

The feedback was easy to split into seven different sections and I am going to cover all seven with you in order of percentages...

100% = 1,437 email responses

- I just do not get the time. - 48.2%
- I am under financial Strain. - 26.2%
- Disillusion with betting systems/services. - 8.8%
- I get to much junk mail and I do not know whom to trust. - 5.8%
- Did not know there was a newsletter. - 4.3%
- I have been on Holiday/Vacation. - 3.4%
- I am having some family problems. - 3.3%

Ok so I am going to run through my thoughts on each of the important categories...

I just do not get the time. - 48.2%

I for one know how hard it is to find the time to enjoy time with my daughter and wife let alone read the news or any publication online. This was something I expected to be the majority reason for not reading the newsletters and it was. Forty eight point two percent of you simply do not have enough time to read the newsletter each week and that is understandable. A high percentage of those who replied with this reason expressed that they wish to stay on the newsletter list because BST is a resource they trust and should they have time in the future they would definitely read what we have to say here.

I am under financial Strain. - 26.2%

I have been in this position back in 2007 and I met Steve Davidson. Steve introduced me to a few books, which helped me massively which then led me on to the Secret by an author called Rhonda Byrne, which you really need to read. All the books I have listed below are fantastic books you should purchase today and read. They are on Amazon. Click on the image of each one and add to cart... Seriously do it... Do it right now! They changed my life. In 2007, I was in 27k pounds worth of credit card debt. It took me 5 years but I am now debt free and am just about to get a mortgage offer, which was unthinkable to me 5 years ago!

Unfortunately the buy links aren't retained in the PDF so please view the original article if you are interested in buying any of the books:-

Disillusion with betting systems/services. - 8.8%

Understandably, 8.8% of you told me that you have about had enough of buying systems and services only for them to buckle and you lose faith in them too quickly. This for me is down to the fact that once bitten you are now twice shy and I call this the 'scepticism factor'. Betting in general is a risky business. You may wonder why tipsters sell their tips when they could use them their selves to make a handsome profit. Programmed in all of us as soon as we think we have been conned is scepticism. Most tipsters I know make a lot of money with their tips and others do not bet at all. At the end of the day if there is a market to feed someone will be there to feed it. Why wont Mr Benson and Hedges just go and smoke his fags to himself instead of selling them to tobacco addicts? It is the same principle and I would never castrate any honest man or women who feel they can provide a service to people without the mindset of trying to (Mind my Swedish!) screw people over for financial gain. We also have to understand that no matter how we feel about tipsters and system providers we cannot paint everyone with the same tainted brush because that is unfair. Everyone deserves a chance.

BST Newsletter © BettingSystemTruths 2012

The scepticism factor takes me back to 2007 when Victoria (my now wife) and me was sat in the middle of Ibiza town at the McDonalds restaurant with our 'at the time' 5 year old daughter Hollie. We were naive and inexperienced travellers. I placed our bag with all of our valuables under Vicki's feet and within 30 seconds of my doing that somebody expertly took my attention away from the direction of the bag and somebody else cleverly placed the bag inside their pushchair and fled the scene. We did not know this until an English woman told us a minute later. Everything was in this bag, money, video camera, her mom's camera :(, glasses some jewellery, luckily not our passports. We were in absolute horror. You know that feeling when the blood rushes to your face and an immediate sick feeling in the pit of your stomach starts.

We spent the next 30 minutes running around Ibiza Town trying to find our bag... I have no idea to this day, what I thought I would encounter had we found the thief and the bag... I am a big guy, I was an amateur boxer for 4 years from the age of 11 to 14 and I can pack a punch however, what was I going to do when encountered with a gang who most probably would of had weapons. This was not going through our heads at the time. We were being very irrational about the situation, which is what we do as humans. Luckily enough we never found our bag or the people involved and ended up at a police station.

Anyway, the point of telling this story was that because of this horrible experience we would not ever get stung again. In a way looking back, I was glad that none of us actually got hurt and all they took was material items and in time we could replace them. When I compare this experience with buying a system or tipster service, I can fully understand why 8.8% of people on this email broadcast are disillusioned with betting systems/services. Vicki and I always keep our bags close to our person and within view and we trust absolutely no strangers who might approach us. We must look like fools sometimes when market researcher's in the middle of Lichfield square jump on us and the first thing we do is grasp hold of our bags! That is what it does to you and you just have to learn to trust again. That does not mean disregarding caution. With everything, we have to be cautious and this applies to our investments to.

I get to much junk mail and I do not know whom to trust. - 5.8%

Make sure you add this email address to your safe addresses admin@bettingsystemtruths.com

Quite a few of you did not even know that we were a review site! We review products that are on the market for up to 3 months if needed so that you do not have to shell out to find out they do not work. Our voluntary reviewers provide all this free of charge and in their spare time. Some of our reviewers have been reviewing for 5 years now! We never ever hard sell you any products on the review site. We review products and let you know of their progress. If they are doing well then we will tell you they are doing well. If they are doing badly then we tell you that also. At the end of a review, our reviewer and review manager decide on an overall star ranking. The newsletter each week has an all-time comparison league table, which detail a multitude of reviews past and present.

Did not know there was a newsletter. - 4.3%

When we send out a newsletter, we always use the same words in the subject. It will look something like this...

[BST] - PDF Newsletter 109 [Short Description Here]

The newsletter will appear to come from *Betting System Truths. Notice there is a star before the senders name for recognition purposes. I have been doing this for 5 years and open rates drop if I remove the star so that tells me that BST readers look for that star.

I have been on Holiday/Vacation. - 3.4%

BST Newsletter © BettingSystemTruths 2012

Well obviously, if you were on holiday I am sorry that you ended up in this group however, the test data, which landed you in the non-responder group, derived from 5 weeks study. I did not think that many people taking holidays usually went for longer than 3 weeks. Obviously 3.4% of you did. Lucky sods!

I am having some family problems. - 3.3%

There is not much I can say apart from it is very understandable and no one would expect you to be doing anything other than attending to your family in times such as these...

We have come to the end of this article based on my research into the newsletter readership. Having completed the research, it has confirmed to me that I should move swiftly on with my plans in 2013 where I am going to set up a tipster platform made up of two sets of members... the Providers, and the Subscribers. Anyone can be a Provider and anyone can be a Subscriber. Providers will be able to deliver their service without having to worry about buying a domain name, setting up a website, getting a merchant account for taking payments and of course finding customers. In 2013, 'Tipster Hub' will come in to fruition and I am going to be working with Malcolm Pett using his Tipster in a box so that each tipster can provide an automated service. This will not be like any other kind of tipster service though. Each tipster that joins as a provider will be responsible for his or her own service and must agree to offer a free 5-week trial upfront to all subscribers.

Anyway, I think that is enough on this subject for now. I will reveal all next year. Thanks for reading.

& Profitable Punting,

James Fitzmaurice
(The Critique)

P.S. I will be interested to hear your comments about this article.

Football Bets Week 7

Sgt Chris reviewing Football Bets

2nd December 2012

Hi bloggers,

Here's the results for the seventh week of my Football Bets review.

A small reminder about the staking plans we use:

1. Level stakes

2. Author's advised stakes

3. A rolling bank staking plan. Staking 2% of the bank at each bet, and recalculating at the end of the betting day. If it's a losing day, my stake for the next one will remain the same, but if it's a winning one i will recalculate my stake according to my new bank. Every time my bank hits a new high, my stake will increase, but it won't decrease after a losing performance. It's risky but i'd thought it might be worth it.

So, onto the results:

Football Lays Introduction

Sergeant John Introduces Football Lays

Sergeant John here, back from a short review break with batteries charged and raring to go with an interesting new one from Down Under.

This review is on another tasty-looking product from the Steve Davidson stable and his Football Lays claims to have not had a losing month in the past year. This period produced an eye-catching 713 points profit from the European season and also what is termed the 'Off Season Leagues'.

These leagues are resident in Finland, Brazil, Norway and Sweden and this year ran from 16th May to 9th September, producing 148 points profit with a strike-rate of 55%, betting on 197 games.

Steve is insistent on making sure readers are not confused with the well-known system 'Lay The Draw' and tells us Football Lays comes as an exe file (a program) and not in pdf form. In that he details how to find selections. He also delivers selections into your inbox, which can include four days' worth in one batch.

Selections can be layed days in advance and you do not need to be poised over the mouse button as games go in-play. With some tips available three days in advance I shall be looking at differences in price nearer the kick-off time to see if there are more qualifiers.

The current cost of Football Lays is £69.97 and, consistent with all of Steve Davidson's digital products, there are no refunds. Rest assured though, he does provide excellent customer service should you have any queries.

This review will last for 56 betting days with an option to extend to 84 betting days should the results are going well or the selections are not so frequent. With the amount of bets outlined above I somehow doubt that the selections will be infrequent.

I shall be using a one-point level stake for each selection and follow any recommended staking plan by the author.

Past results seem to be very profitable and I shall be very interested to see if they can maintain this as the review goes forward.

The Form Man - Introduction

3rd December 2012

Sergeant Lucian - Introduces The Form Man

Hi Bloggers,

Allow me to introduce a tipping service from SportWorld Publishing - The Form Man.

As the name says this is a tipping service provided by The Form Man.

The service provides horse racing selections on Win and Place market around 12 selections per day. Selections can be Win only, place only or both. Proofing will use Betfair Starting Price (BSP) but it is really the buyers choice if they want to use other bookies with horse racing markets.

On the Form Man web page you can find results from August. The results with 1 point level stake are: August - profit 143.70 points, September - profit 82.39 points, October - profit 7.70 points, November - profit 32.14 points.

Membership of The Form Man is £95 per month, not cheap but this review will help you to see if the money is a good investment.

I'll use for this review only one bank of 100 points. The review will be for 56 betting days extended to 84 betting days if it does well. Please note that during the review maybe I will come up with some extra staking strategies if this will bring more profit. This will be extra and not count in the final review.

Thank you for your time and I hope you enjoy the review.

Lay Bet Dominator - Final Review

Sgt Colin reviews Lay Bet Dominator

Summary: Failed

BST Newsletter © BettingSystemTruths 2012

Hi, Sgt Colin here, with the final review of the Lay Bet Dominator service, a straightforward horseracing tipping service which selects horses to lay on the betting exchanges. Part of the Steve Davidson stable of services, this is intended as a low liability service, and selections must have odds at 3.0 or below for bets to be placed. The selections are provided by e-mail (usually the previous day to racing) and on a members only website, where the results are also published.

The Lay Bet Dominator service currently costs £35 per month, or £90 per quarter, or £175 for 6 months (with 1 month added on!).

The website suggested 3 potential staking plans;

- a) fixed liabilities, whereby whatever the odds the liability remains the same on each bet in £ terms.
- b) % liabilities, whereby the liability on each bet is a fixed % of the betting bank
- c) fixed stakes, where the profit target for each bet remains the same in £ terms. Thus the higher the odds, the higher the liability.

Results

I reviewed Lay Bet Dominator for 58 days, using Betfair SP as the odds. For each of the 3 staking plans, I started with a 100 point bank and staked 5 points (Plan a), 5% of the bank (Plan b) and aimed for 5 points profit (Plan c).

We ended with a loss overall using each of the staking plans, and therefore we have to classify this as a failed trial.

Fixed Liabilities: Final Bank 87.4 points – Loss 12.6 points from 410 points staked

% liabilities: Final bank 81.0 points – Loss 19 points from 349 points staked.

Fixed stakes: Final bank 72.4 points – Loss 27.6 points from 555 points staked.

We ended with 45 winning lays out of 82 selections (55% hit rate), not enough when the average lay odds were 2.3.

The review was virtually scuppered in the first 10 days, when after an initial winner we recorded 8 consecutive losing bets, and we had 12 losing bets out of the first 15 to effectively halve our bank. The results improved from there, and we had almost achieved breakeven over the trial with a week to go, only to slip back into losses again.

Strangely, had we laid all of the selections (ignoring the odds limit of 3.0) we would have been profitable during the trial.

Ease of Use

It couldn't be much easier, as long as you have a Betfair account. Receive the selections, place an SP bet using the odds limit function, which is well explained on the website, and wait!

Service

This was quite excellent – emails were received promptly. The website was updated swiftly too, was secure, gave accurate results with no fudging / lame excuses etc. First class I think.

Summary

The review has to be classified as a FAILED service as we lost money during the trial period, due to a dreadful start. A pity because the customer service was excellent and the service was easy to use.

Sergeant Steve Reviews ProBall Club

PASSED AND APPROVED

Rating: ★★★★★

Hi Bloggers,

As stated in the introduction I kept five separate banks and will review as such. I started with a $2000 bank in each, having $100 bets on all selections, except for the golf which I started with $5000 as there was a higher number of bets in that system. Therefore 20 point banks with a 50 point bank for golf.

To recap, ProBall Club gives the services of 5 separate tipsters for both Sports Bets (Football, Golf and Tennis) and Horse Racing, for both back and Lay bets (as follows).

- Football Lays Service - laying the draw;
- Football Back Service - double chance bets, which covers both the team you are backing and the draw;
- Racing Lays Service - lays low priced favourites
- Pro Tennis Tips – straight match win betting; and

- The Golf tips service offers 2 main types of bets, outright bets (each/way) and 2/3 Ball Bets.

There was also an additional tip given out called 'Profit/Perm tips' which were football accumulator bets. These weren't 'official' bets and dried up about half way through the review so I am ignoring them for the purposes of this final review.

I didn't actually have to know anything about any of these sports to place these bets. I just received an email and put them on. There doesn't appear to be a money back guarantee if you are not satisfied with this product. The cost is £47 per month all up.

ProBall Club claimed to have made £40,085.00 profit in the first 7 months of 2012 at an average of almost £6,000.00 per month (to £100 stakes). I started with a bank of $13,000 and finished with a bank of $16,954, a $3,954 profit and a 30.4% return for the trial period, much better than bank interest! And this result was exacerbated by an extraordinarily bad last day of the trial where it lost $2,390 so if we finish the trial a day earlier we make a $6,344 profit, a return of 48.8%. But that's punting I'm afraid. Anyway, on to the nitty gritty.

Pro Football Lays (Lay the Draw)

So altogether there were 109 qualifiers, 89 winners and 20 losers for a strike rate of 82 per cent.

I cannot confirm the total amount staked however the bank moving from $2,000 to $3,795 represents a return on investment of around 90 per cent in less than 3 months, which is nothing to be ashamed of in this economic climate!

4 stars

Start Balance: $2,000

Final Balance: $3,795

Pro Football Backs (Double Chance)

Altogether there were 114 qualifiers and 64 winners for a strike rate of 56 per cent.

So therefore the total amount staked was $11,400 for a return of $11,266, a return on investment of around -1.2 per cent, a little disappointing. This system never really threatened at any stage.

2.5 stars

Start Balance: $2,000

Final Balance: $1,866

Pro Racing Lays

A bit unlucky with this system as it really gathered momentum then lost nearly $1,700 on the final 2 days. Altogether there were 113 qualifiers and 88 winners (losers) for a strike rate of 78 per cent.

Again, I cannot confirm the total amount staked however the bank moving from $2,000 to $954 represents a return on investment of around -52 per cent, very disappointing but also a little unlucky. This system was looking the goods for a long period of time until the end after being sluggish at the start.

Start Balance: $2,000

Final Balance: $954

Pro Tennis Tips

Altogether there were 66 qualifiers and 47 winners for a strike rate of 72 per cent.

So therefore the total amount staked was $6,600 for a return of $7,389, a return on investment of around 12 per cent, not bad at all. This system took a while to get rolling but was reasonably solid.

3 stars

Start Balance: $2,000

Final Balance: $2,789

Pro Golf Tips

I will divide this analysis into 2 parts, the each ways and the head to heads. I have to own up to a couple of errors along the way so revised final result is below.

Each ways

Altogether there were 121 qualifiers, with 8 winners and 16 further placegetters for a strike rate of 19.8 per cent. The total amount staked was $12,100 for a return of $13,521, a return on investment of around 12 per cent, not bad at all. This system throws up few winners, but when it does it is very worthwhile.

Head to Heads

Altogether there were 125 qualifiers, with 59 winners and 18 ties for a win strike rate of 47.2 per cent and a 'non lose' of 61.6 per cent. The total amount staked was $12,500 for a return of $13,629, a return on investment of around 9 per cent, not bad at all. So overall the golf is a pretty solid earner.

4 stars

Start Balance: $5,000

Final Balance: $7,550

Final Analysis

Any system that makes a 30%+ return in less than 3 months has to be a good one though for me I'd be cherry picking the lay the draw and golf tips personally. I have provided my ratings for each of the individual systems and I am giving ProBall Club an overall rating of 3 stars but I believe overall it may well perform better than that, I think this review might have landed in a time of lesser performance.

Start Balance: $13,000

Final Balance: $16,954

League Table of Reviews

Return

A reasonable way of comparing the performance of systems is to work out the profit (or loss) as a percentage of the starting bank. Obviously this table doesn't replace reading the reviews, because profit as %age of bank is not the only factor in judging a system. Nevertheless, it is a valid at-a-glance way of bringing the mass of data together. The league table now includes systems that have finished their reviews as well. We have twenty seven reviews that have made a profit of over 15%.
