INTRODUCTION

Hi Folks,

Welcome to BST Newsletter Edition 32. I hope you had a great Christmas and here's to a successful New Year!

If you wish to contact me about the newsletter please e-mail me rich@bettingssystemtruths.com
You can also use that address to send in your contributions for the Bloggers Corner section of the newsletter.

It's a cut-back newsletter this week, due to the lack of action because of the weather and it is also just a holding newsletter until we have time to create some new content for the New Year.

Current Reviews

This section covers all the current reviews being conducted and gives a quick insight how each review is performing. All the figures quoted below cover the period December 20th to December 26th. The way we count the number of review days has altered slightly to allow for those days when the sport is off due to the weather. If there are no events for that sport, then it is not counted as a review day. If the sport is on, but the system doesn't have any selections, then it is still counted as a review day.

Blogger's Corner

Please send your e-mail contributions to the Bloggers Corner to me at rich@bettingssystemtruths.com.

Rich, just wondering if you have tried 'The world horse racing formula'. I have read a bit about it but it seems too costly for me to purchase by myself. If you have heard of it and think that it is ok maybe there are a couple of other guys in the same boat that I am in that could possibly share this system with me. Thank you. Ian.

It gets slated by some of those who saw the system at a well known forum. I can't find any reference to it amongst the scams on our website, but it doesn't look worth pursuing if it uses a "Martingale" (aiming to recover your losses on the next bet) staking system. A Martingale system will bust your bank in the end.

Any readers here got any experience of the "world horse racing formula"?

Sgt Rich

League Table

The systems under review have different starting banks, different stakes and some systems have variable stakes. A reasonable way of comparing the performance of systems is to work out the profit (or loss) as a percentage of the starting bank and to average this out over the number of the days of the review.

Obviously this doesn't replace reading the reviews, because profit %age of bank per day is not the only factor in judging a system. Nevertheless, I think it gives a valid comparison and an at-a-glance way of bringing the mass of data together.
