INTRODUCTION

Hi Folks,

Happy New Year! May 2011 be a successful punting year for you all. My New Year resolution is to only follow those selections and systems that I already know work and to cut out any impulsive or hopeful bets.

This is the great opportunity that the reviews on here give us all. One could simply follow any systems that have 4 or more stars, plus those currently being reviewed and showing a regular profit. (See the league table at the end of this newsletter for currently reviewed successful systems - the top 3 or 4 show a clear advantage over the other systems under review).

Talking of the reviews, I'm sure I speak for all our readers in thanking our reviewers for keeping the reviews going through the distractions of the Christmas period.

If you wish to contact me about the newsletter please e-mail me rich@bettingsystemtruths.com You can also use that address to send in your contributions for the Bloggers Corner section of the newsletter. We have three very useful contributions to the Bloggers Corner, this week, from Glenn, Mike and Joyce

New Reviews

The Secret Tipster - Reviewer Sgt Philip

The Secret Tipster is a new review and involves an e-mail service for laying horses, where the author states the maximum points for each lay following his plan. You can of course lay each horse to level stakes, but I propose to follow the advice of the Secret Tipster and see how we progress.

The cost for this service is currently on a buy one month get one free offering which works out at £28.50 per month, however the price will revert to the original cost of £57 per month after 18 January, and I have no idea how many places are left at the discounted price.

The system promises a lot, such as the following information extracted from the sales page.....

“John Romane Has Made 304.57 Points Profit In 17.5 Months!
With His Genius Staking Plan Thats 851.46 Points!
50 POINTS A MONTH!”

50 points a month profit is huge by anyone’s expectations and we will of course have to wait and see what the review brings.

My thoughts on this system are that we will probably require a fairly substantial bank and staking plan, my view is that I will start with a £1000 bank and use 5% of the bank as the unit stake.

A good start for Day 1 with 2 successful lays as follows

Day 1, Jan 3 2011

1250 sollim 4.3

1530 russian song 7

1 point Level stakes were advised yesterday (prices were quoted in the e-mail and it depends what time you got on for the price, although the author does state that the lower priced selections (normally favourites) will come in, so it is worth waiting until nearer the off before placing the lay bet)

Starting Bank £1000

Profit on the Day £47.50 + £49.76 = £97.26

New Bank £1097.26

Final Reviews

Three Final Reviews this week, two passed with 4.5 and 4 stars and one failed

Soccer Overs – Final Review by Sgt Rich

4th October to 2nd January

Passed – Highly recommended

Rating: ★★★★★

Soccer Overs from Dave, consists of bets in the Soccer Over 2.5 goals market. Dave uses a selection method to find matches that are likely to have plenty of goals. Over the period of the review, he has consistently achieved this. Dave has been honest and reliable to deal with, both on the Blog here and in our emails and his selections have come through with an even success rate despite the freezing weather affecting the staging of matches.

Soccer Overs With a strike rate of a fraction short of 67%, the original bank of 100 points has trebled! A starting Bank of £100 is now £312.30 using Bookie odds or £286.10 on Betfair, allowing for 5% commission.

Except for the first few matches, I have reported the advised odds; the best odds I could find with Bookmakers; and the Betfair odds. They are only snapshot odds, depending upon when I looked them up, but remarkably the odds for each of the three odds have averaged out at 1.75 or 1.76.

The average odds of 1.75/1.76 reflect a probability of 57% success rate. So the actual success rate of 67% shows us where the profit is achieved and validates the value found in Dave's Soccer Overs selections.

During the review period, the worst run of results was between 20/11 and 03/12 when there was a loss of 70.80 points on the Bookie odds and 73.42 points on Betfair odds. Other than that there were two losing streaks of about 30 points. That's the extent to which the 100 point bank was threatened over three months. The rest of the time, the profit/loss trended consistently upwards.

Here is a graph of the Profit made using the advised Bookie odds and Betfair odds:

I'm giving Soccer Overs a high recommendation of 4.5 stars. I don't think I'd ever give anything 5 stars, as nothing is perfect. I can't give any negatives for the service. I know some people have posted comments about the aggressive staking system of a 100 point bank and 10 point bets, but one should bear in mind that if the Soccer Overs system had been unsuccessful, the losses would have been high, just as the gains have been high. Personally, I'm a little nervous about betting 10% of the bank each time and am more comfortable with a stake of 5% of the bank, but nevertheless Dave's Soccer Overs system states the bets are 10% and he has earned the profits to match.

I know that Dave has some ideas of staking plans to use with his Soccer Overs selections and I'm hoping some readers will run the figures through some staking plans. The spreadsheet of results is available to anyone who wants it; meanwhile the complete list of results is posted in the Final Review on the website here:

<http://www.bettingsystemtruths.com/?s=%22soccer+overs%22>

Soccer Overs costs £30 per month or £70 for three months with a 7 day trial period. So for this review period a subscription would have cost either £90 or £70 and would run for another few days yet.

Laying Autumn Profits – Final Review by Sgt Tony

Rating: ★★★★★

Our cumulative profit ended up at a healthy £806.00 or 8.06 points over the period of the review. Just for the record, the system actually began on 1 September (we started this review on 25 September) and their results for the three months show a profit of £1,724.00 or 17.24 points at level stakes, with average odds of 3.42.

The system costs £97 to purchase, so that still leaves us with a healthy net profit of £709 for the review period, which would have been £1,627 for the whole three months of the system. If you had opted to receive the monthly selections by email at a cost of £97 per month, this would have reduced the profit to £418 or £1,336 for the whole year. The system is very well written and easy to follow, so I would not personally have opted to receive the selections, but that choice is obviously up to the individual.

In summary, the system is very easy to use, has relatively low risk and has returned us a decent profit, particularly if you opted to make your own selections. The longest losing run was 5 selections, which happened only once. We had one losing run of 4 selections and three of 3 selections. The results over recent years have been consistently profitable as well. You do not have to sit at the PC all day watching the racing, as you get the selections very early (or make them yourself from the manual) and can simply place your bets using the recommended Betfair SP odds limits.

I would certainly use and buy the system myself and would recommend it to anybody who asked for my opinion. Throughout the whole review period, Chris Castell has been extremely helpful in answering all my questions, has responded to all of my emails promptly and efficiently and has always delivered the selections accurately and on time. He has also published all the results quickly and accurately.

I am giving this a rating of 4 stars.

Russell Gibbs Personal Advice Service – Final Review by Sgt Tony

This system is different to most that I have reviewed in that it offers a variety of selections – win, each way and lay. For the purposes of the review, I kept the win and each way selections separate from the laying selections. Here is a summary of the results:

On the win and each way selections we had a total of 83 bets. Of these, 16 won, 18 were placed and 49 lost. The longest losing run was of 9 selections, which happened twice. The system recommends a bet of £50 to win or £25 each way when advised accordingly.

Our cumulative bank, which started at £1,000 when the review began, finished at £426.00 giving us a loss to date of -£574.00 or -11.48 points at level stakes.

No account is taken in their results of Betfair commission. I used the Betfair SP throughout the review, although different results will be shown on their website, as they use the ISP and also show the price at the time that the selection was given. Russell also occasionally advises each way doubles, but these were not accounted for.

The laying section of the system was more successful. During the review period there were 73 selections. Of these, 47 were winning lays (i.e. we won money on them) and 26 were losing lays (i.e. we lost money on them). The system advises betting a £100 liability at Betfair SP. Once again, they take no account of Betfair commissions. The longest losing run was 5 selections, which only happened once.

Our cumulative bank, which started at £1,000 when the review began, finished at £1,029.51 giving us a profit to date of £29.51 or 0.2951 of a point. In summary, the system produced a loss of -£574.00 on the backing side and a profit of £29.51 on the laying side, leaving us with an overall loss for the review period of -£544.49 or -11.18 points at level stakes.

On the plus side, I had a couple of conversations with Russell and he was very helpful on both occasions. The support provided by their help desk was also first class.

To conclude, although the service is very professional and helpful, it lost money for the review period so has to be classed as a 'fail'. If you take into account the monthly subscriptions (£47.50 for the first month and then £95 per month thereafter) we lost even more money.

I would have to rate it at 2 stars (failed).

Current Reviews

This section covers all the current reviews being conducted and gives a quick insight how each review is performing. All the figures quoted below cover the period December 27th to January 2nd. The way we count the number of review days has altered slightly to allow for those days when the sport is off due to the weather. If there are no events for that sport, then it is not counted as a review day. If the sport is on, but the system doesn't have any selections, then it is still counted as a review day.

9 Minute System - Reviewer Sgt Rich

Generally a small, steady profit again this week. Variant 3, which was introduced recently into the system, is proving hard to match bets at the maximum allowed odds, so it is lagging behind the other variants.

Here's a response from Glenn to my request for reader's experience with the "World Horse Racing Formula"?

Hi Sgt Rich,

Just responding to your request for anyone with experience on the WHRF.

I tried the program for 35 days. Raced every day and tracked the progress. Although I would have strings of wins as many as 8 in a row you are right about the martingale betting eventually catching up to you.

I only had 4 losing days but those days wiped out my entire profits.

Without giving away the system when you bet two horses at a time you must win at greater than 3-1 for you to build a bankroll that can sustain the losses.

Several times situations arose where the win (a favorite) did not recapture the accrued losses.

I don't know how much detail you want but this is a brief summary of my experience.

thanks for a great News letter !

And another from Mike

I tested out the WHRF on both US and Australia horse racing. In my experience, the odds of the winners for US horse racing are too low to make any profit long term. The odds for Australian horse racing are better (being in the US, I can only bet on Australia A and B tracks each day, so perhaps the market is inefficient, therefore leading to better odds for the horses?), and I have shown a profit if you restrict betting to only certain days. However, I cannot recommend the system, as it is very time consuming (you basically can't take a day off, for fear that you will miss that big winner that actually makes the system profitable) and I'm not convinced on why the method itself would give you an edge over the bookie besides the inefficient market reason from above.

Here's a useful account from Joyce of her experience with "Gain the Edge".

Hi Rich,

Just want to pass on a warning to others, I purchased the Gain the Edge from Wes-Malin, should've known better as I've a dealings with him before, didn't realise it was him until after I pressed the pay now button.....

Anyway as I said I purchased the ebook downloaded it ok, but when it came to download the Systems Calculator.....it was just a scramble...have sent an email to him, which it nearly nigh impossible to get, but no surprise.....I've had no answer back from him !
Regards Joyce

League Table

The systems under review have different starting banks, different stakes and some systems have variable stakes. A reasonable way of comparing the performance of systems is to work out the profit (or loss) as a percentage of the starting bank and to average this out over the number of the days of the review.

The spectacular appearance of “The Secret Tipster at #1 is based upon just the first day, so we will wait and see how it does over a longer period. Similarly the rise up the table of “Betting Grenade” is based upon a particularly good week this week.

Obviously this table doesn't replace reading the reviews, because profit %age of bank per day is not the only factor in judging a system. Nevertheless, I think it gives a valid comparison and an at-a-glance way of bringing the mass of data together.

| System Reviewed | Start Bank | Profit /Loss | Profit as %age of Bank | Days Reviewed | %age per Day | Position Last Week | Position This Week |
