INTRODUCTION

Hi Folks,

This week we have three Final Reviews and one New Review.

Unfortunately, The Killer Instinct, Turf Wars and the Legacy and Saver Systems all failed their Final Reviews and we start off a review of Lets Get Laid, let's hope this one succeeds!

As regards our Current Reviews, this week, BetPlan has recovered and NFL Betting System has jumped into the top 10 with the start of the NFL season.

Bonus Bagging is far and away the best performing system during its review period. Betfair Success Formula has continued to do well since the start of this football season and Assured Soccer Profits continues in good form.

We'd like to hear from you, please contact me by e-mail via the Bloggers Corner at rich@bettingssystemtruths.com

Lets Get Layed – Introduction

23rd Oct 2011

Hi Bloggers, after a little rest I am back with a new review of 'Lets Get Layed', a lay tipping service with approx 4 lay tips per day.

I will be reporting on 3 separate laying systems as follows:

1. Lets Get Layed Original

Laying horses between 4.50 BFSP and 9.99 BFSP

2. Handicapped horses system

Laying horses up to 10.00 BFSP

3. Bonus lay system

Laying horses up to 8.00 BFSP

I will report the results separately for all 3 systems and also have a running total of all 3 systems combined. I will start with a 100pt bank for each system and bet 2pts on each selection. (a 50pt bank with a level staking plan is recommended by Lets Get Layed)

There is currently a 7 day free trial of the service and a monthly payment of 39.99GBP thereafter.

I shall be starting my review in full as from Monday the 24th Oct. Good luck to all concerned!

All the best, Sgt Tommy (click here to see Lets Get Layed...)

The Killer Instinct Final Review

22nd Oct 2011

Sgt Karl Reviews The Killer Instinct

The Killer Instinct is a very inexpensive laying service at only £10 per month; emails are received daily with a selection of horses to lay, and a rule on the odds that you would lay at. Currently it is no lay over 8.0 or 7/1, there is no lower odds rule limit. You can easily use a bot however because the emails don't come until around lunchtime you would need to be able to dial in to your home PC to add selections to your bot etc.

The Killer Instinct service is simplicity itself, no convoluted rules, no constantly watching live markets (if you have a bot) the only thing I would suggest if you use this service is you set the bot up with a ceiling of 7.8 as it is not uncommon for your bot to lay at 8.0 and the service record the result as a "no bet". This is due to quite fast variations on the betfair SP near to the off, where odds can and do change quite dramatically sometimes.

We finished the trial with a minus 10 point loss, so what went wrong?

Well nothing really, as daft as that reads I did fully expect The Killer Instinct to swing into a loss, I will explain more clearly... at one point in the trial we were handsomely sitting on a 40 point profit, and for a laying service that is extremely good, at that time I decided to look back over the services last yearly results and what struck me was they had been in this position before of a very handsome profit and then proceeded to go on a very difficult couple of months and watch that position of health disappear into a loss, I did fear at the time we could see something similar, and it did prove to be that way, the service went on a terrible run and lost all of our profits and then some.

So what can we learn?

If you look at their previous history it was very promising to note that not only did they recover the service went on to much better profits, but this was over a quite extended period. If you felt like trying this service you would definitely have to give it at least a year, as it does seem like a classic roller coaster type of service. I am aware the service is looking at these issues and possibly going to start issuing with a top 3 selection to try to smooth the P+L column.

However from going from a 40 point advantage to a 10 point loss is an eye watering 50 point drop in a very short space of time, and one which cannot be overlooked, so on this occasion The Final Instinct service has Failed.

Regards

Inspector Karl – Final Review of Turf Wars

24/10/2011

Hello Bloggers,

This review is going to be a polar opposite of the review on BST.

Let's look at what we get?

Turf Wars is a managed service from the Betfan team, emails are received promptly and you can also log into the Betfan website to collect the tips, from the terms of Betfan as the management I cannot fault the service, the service costs £30 per month

The Final Stats.

Trial P+L -25 pts

Starting Bank 150 pts

Finishing Bank 125 pts

Staked 1320 pts

ROI -2.5%

What went wrong?

I feel there is a fair few issues that subscribers may have issues with. Firstly and probably a critical error is the size of the bank, it is very rare to see such a disjointed recommended bank to what in reality it should be.

The recommended bank is 150 points, but sometimes we were using nigh on 50 points of that in one day. That is Russian roulette with your bank. My advice is that needs to be at least 500 points, probably more to be safe.

The bets are numerous and come at all hours of the day, you could never switch you email off and feel safe you would not miss any bets, we even had an instance where a no bet today email was issued, then a few hours later another email came with a bet, I am sorry I find that unacceptable. (The vendor wrote a letter of complaint about my attitude to finding that unacceptable) so you as a subscriber would need to form your own opinions.

The losses would have been heavy expect for one good day, one day saved us from bankruptcy, that day returned 150pt profit on the horses, so had you missed that email, or not played the horses (BST review looked at the horse tips and found them to be poor over the long term) then you would be in a much worst situation than what we recorded.

I think what I find the biggest issue for me is the amount of money we used to achieve a very poor ROI%, we staked 1320 points let's examine this for a minute, at £20 per point we would if used £26,400- £10 per point we would of used £13,200 at £5 a point £6,600 etc when you are turning over that much capital you have to have an absolute faith in the service, and whilst Lisa who runs Turf Wars assures subscribers she makes a living off her tips I am in no position to dispute that, but if we examine this month for example October is currently minus 66 points down, so at £10 a point that is over six grand down in a little over 20 days, up that to £20 a point and one would need to have balls of steel.

I simply could not recommend a service that requires so much from its subscribers, add to that we only had one good day and that we ended on a loss, this service is a fail.

On a positive note, if you are the complete opposite to me, you would probably find Turf Wars an excellent service, it would depend how risk averse you are.

Turf Wars..... Failed.

Regards

The Legacy And Saver Systems – Final Review

“They Laughed When I Said I'd Make My Living Betting on the Horses...”

The Legacy
(1979-2011)

“...BUT THEY'RE NOT LAUGHING NOW!”

Stan Hibbert
(Original Author)

21st October 2011

Sgt Jon's Review Summary of The Legacy And Saver Systems

Most betting professionals will tell you that to be successful in the long term, you have to make sure you are identifying value in your selections.

Regrettably both the Legacy and Saver systems fail to do this and it is no surprise that the outcome of the three month trial showed a small combined loss.

The Legacy system is designed to back forecast favourites at certain courses which is why I wondered (and still do) if this is a back fitted system picking tracks where favourites have performed historically better than normal. No explanation is given as to why these tracks are to be included and others discounted.

The Saver system introduces additional filters and selections can be made at all courses. Whilst these selections did make a small profit over the review period, the gain was nothing spectacular. In fact the combined P/L showed an overall loss of -2.99 points.

The system e-book costs £97 plus VAT as a one off payment via clickbank.

Personally, I could not get "excited" about the selection process and although the strike rates were good, the prices were so short that the systems struggled to get into and grow profits. I monitored results using Betfair SP which as we all know is generally more generous than ISP and I imagine that if ISP had been used the outcome would have been worse.

If BST still had a neutral category, I would place Legacy and Saver Systems as a neutral system as essentially no serious damage was done to the opening bank, but as it is I have placed this system in the FAILED category.

Strike Rate: Legacy: 26.8% (30/112) Saver: 39.3% (48/122)

Opening Bank: 100 points

Legacy Cumulative P/L: minus 7.46 points

Saver Cumulative P/L: + 4.47 points

Closing Bank: 97.01 points

League Table of Current Reviews

Return to Contents/Index of this newsletter

A reasonable way of comparing the performance of systems is to work out the profit (or loss) as a percentage of the starting bank. Obviously this table doesn't replace reading the reviews, because profit as %age of bank is not the only factor in judging a system. Nevertheless, it is a valid at-a-glance way of bringing the mass of data together.

I've colour coded the reviews that are the currently most successful, with the colour of their profitability graph to make them easier to spot.

This week, BetPlan has recovered and NFL Betting System has jumped into the top 10 with the start of the NFL season.

Profitability Graph

Return to Contents/Index of this newsletter

Here is a graph of the profit being made by the front-runners as a percentage of their starting bank. This gives a week by week comparative view of their progress.

It gives a representation of the volatility or dependability of each system. Ideally we would want a graph that increased each week by roughly the same amount. If a system or tipping service could produce that, then we would really have a winning review!

I'm only including those that are currently making over 20% profit. Bonus Bagging is far and away the best performing system during its review period. The Betplan has recovered well from its dip. Betfair Success Formula has continued to do well since the start of this football season and Assured Soccer Profits continues in good form.
