

Posting Content Checklist

There is a daily/weekly posting guidelines video which accompanies this PDF. To absorb both the video and this document is vitally important.

Please refer to the "Review Charter PDF" for guidelines on the posting process. This guide explains what should be included in each of your post updates.

Firstly if it is your first days post you will need to remove a block of text that I have inserted. You are essentially replacing that text with your update. Please do not delete anything else except this block of text which will read:

[Delete this sentence and replace with your update]

If this is not your first daily post on this review you will have to clone your previous update and you will need to replace the previous posts information and edit the page title and permalink as detailed in the review charter PDF.

Edit The Post Title... followed by the review day number. In the review charter I use this example.

"Stephen Coopers Lays Review Day 1" this will need to be changed to day 2, on day 2 and day 3 on day 3 etc...

Obviously the standard format is;

"Product Name Review Day X"

You will have to change the day or week number in the title and then afterwards click edit on the permalink, delete its contents and click OK.

This is what you should include in a daily posting. Please set it out like this each day:

At the top of the page body type:

- Product Name Review Day X
- The date or dates of which you are reporting on.
- The number of selections for the period being reported on. If possible list them.
- The stake for each selection, and the result, followed by the profit/loss.
- The day's profit/loss return at level stakes and at any recommended staking plan.
- The total of the running banks, for both level stakes and any staking plan, including the current profit/loss, and the figure of the starting bank being used.

Please make sure you do not edit any information in the post such as the link or the part where you sign off. Also please do not edit any options outside the post body such as tags or images.

Now that you are happy with the post you can straight away hit the publish button. Now check the blog to see how your post looks.

If something looks wrong try and fix it yourself. If it is not something you can do please let us know as soon as possible and we will try to rectify the situation.
